

Taking the Sermon Into Our Week

Scripture of the Week: Exodus 16:1-18

From the Sermon:

Would you say that more of what you say to God is “_____” or “_____”?

The primary things coming out of the mouths of the Israelites are _____.

Lies can _____.

When we lose our ability to perceive what God has done and is doing, we no longer _____ what God will do.

Even in this place of a fractured relationship with God, God is still _____ to the people who are complaining against him.

Where we need to keep our heart in check is to see if _____ with God is one of complaining, because we have written a different narrative in our head and heart about who God is.

Reflection Questions:

How would you describe your prayer life?

How does your perception sometimes lead you farther from God?

Do we still trust God in our complaining or do our complaints reveal that we are drifting farther and farther from trusting God?

Prayer:

Lord, release my stiff neck and make me aware of what you are doing. As my attention to you grows, may it free me to praise you for what you have done and who you are. Free me to trust you more. Amen.
