Taking the Sermon Into Our Week

Scripture of the Week: Luke 24: 1-12

From the Sermon:

For Easter isn't supposed to just be a memory or memories about the past, its supposed to be a day that propels us _____ in our Christian walk.

The angels had a question for the women - "Why do you look for the _____?"

The women may have been frightened and confused, but they were also compelled to _____.

When we tell the story of how Jesus has changed our life, then we are like the women - bearing _____ because we have been changed.

Jesus has claimed _____ over all that has held us captive.

Reflection Questions:

How has today not just been a memory for you, but a chance to move forward in the freedom of Christ?

How do you claim not just what Christ once did, but what Christ is doing in and through your life?

What is the Good News that you have been set free to go and bear witness to?

Prayer:

Lord, we confess that sometimes we forget the power that comes in your name to set us free. Free us, O Lord, from all that is holding us captive. In Your name, Jesus, amen!
